2 2 MAR	1978 By 25X1 INTELLIGENCE REPORT
COUNTRY	U.S.S.R. DATE: 25X1  CONFIDENTIAL INFO.
SUBJECT	Soviet Policy Regarding the Danube, the Kiel Canal, and the Straits DIST. 26 December 1946
ORIGIN	This document is hereby regraded to CONFIDENTIAL in accordance with the letter of 15 October 1978 from the Director of Countral this 1251/8 13 the
DISTRIBUTIO	x x x x x
STATE	WAR NAVY JUSTICE R&E C&D 4-2
	The U.S.S.R. had intended to call a conference of Danube river states for the 25X1 🔭 25X1	purpose of settling the question of navigation on the Damube. This conference, which would have taken place in Vienna in November, was to have been presided
25X1	over by Russia. It would have had representatives from none of the other great over by Russia. It would have had representatives from none of the other great powers.
24	powers.  the Balkans Commission does not change the
25X1 .	powers.
25X1 25X1 <sup>2</sup>	the Balkans Commission does not change the fundamental position of the U.S.S.R., which remains uncompromising on the fact that the ripartam states alone, victors or vanquished, should settle the Danube question. According to the Russian delegates, there evidently is no question
25X1 25X1 <sup>2</sup>	the Balkans Commission does not change the fundamental position of the U.S.S.R., which remains uncompromising on the fact that the ripartam states alone, victors or vanquished, should settle the Danube question. According to the Russian delegates, there evidently is no question of reserving Banubian commerce for the riparian states alone.  The Soviets will now wait for the results of the examination of the Danubian
25X1 2 2 2 2 2 2 5 X 1 3 2 2 5 X 1	the Balkans Commission does not change the fundamental position of the U.S.S.R., which remains uncompromising on the fact that the ripartam states alone, victors or vanquished, should settle the Danube question. According to the Russian delegates, there evidently is no question of reserving Banubian commerce for the riparian states alone.  The Soviets will now wait for the results of the examination of the Danubian
25X1 <sup>2</sup> 25X1 <sup>3</sup> 25X1 25X1	the Balkans Commission does not change the fundamental position of the U.S.S.R., which remains uncompromising on the fact that the ripariam states alone, victors or vanquished, should settle the Danube question. According to the Russian delegates, there evidently is no question of reserving Banubian commerce for the riparian states alone.  The Soviets will now wait for the results of the examination of the Danubian question by the whole Conference.  They think that in the Conference itself, it will not obtain a two-thirds majority either, and that consequently, it can not be presented as a recommendation of the Conference to the Council of Four Foreign Ministers. Finally, it is the "four" who will decide, the Russians say, and
25X1 <sup>2</sup> 25X1 <sup>3</sup> 25X1 25X1	the Balkans Commission does not change the fundamental position of the U.S.S.R., which remains uncompromising on the fact that the riparian states alone, victors or vanquished, should settle the Damube question. According to the Russian delegates, there evidently is no question of reserving Damubian commerce for the riparian states alone.  The Soviets will now wait for the results of the examination of the Damubian question by the whole Conference.  They think that in the Conference itself, it will not obtain a two-thirds majority either, and that consequently, it can not be presented as a recommendation of the Conference to the Council of Four Foreign Ministers. Finally, it is the "four" who will decide, the Russians say, and the other members will have to go over to the Russian side.  As for the matter of the Straits, the Russian position has not changed there either. Progagenda launched by the Moscow government inside the Soviet Union on this subject was such that a profound modification of this position appears impossible.  When a parallel was drawn between the Flack Sea, and the Baltic Sea, calling both of them "inland seas", none of the Russian delegates present contradicted this simile. The Russians even let it be understood that when the status of the Baltic Sea and that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of
25X1 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2	the Balkans Commission does not change the fundamental position of the U.S.S.R., which remains uncompromising on the fact that the riparian states alone, victors or vanquished, should settle the Damabe question. According to the Russian delegates, there evidently is no question of reserving Damabian commerce for the riparian states alone.  The Soviets will now wait for the results of the examination of the Damabian question by the whole Conference.  They think that in the Conference itself, it will not obtain a two-thirds majority either, and that consequently, it can not be presented as a recommendation of the Conference to the Council of Four Foreign Ministers. Finally, it is the "four" who will decide, the Russians say, and the other members will have to go over to the Russian side.  As for the matter of the Straits, the Russian position has not changed there either. Progagenda launched by the Moscow government inside the Soviet Union on this subject was such that a profound modification of this position appears impossible.  When a parallel was drawn between the Black Sea, and the Baltic Sea, calling both of the "inland seas", none of the Russian delegates present contradicted this simile. The Russians even let it be understood that when the status of the Baltic Sea and that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of
25X1 2 2 2 2 2 5 X 1 2 5 X 1 2 5 X 1 2 5 X 1	the Balkans Commission does not change the fundamental position of the U.S.S.R., which remains uncompromising on the fact that the riparten states alone, victors or vanquished, should settle the Danube question. According to the Russian delegates, there evidently is no question of reserving Banubian commerce for the riparian states alone.  The Seviets will now wait for the results of the examination of the Danubian question by the whole Conference.  They think that in the Conference itself, it will not obtain a two-thirds majority either, and that consequently, it can not be presented as a recommendation of the Conference to the Council of Four Foreign Ministers. Finally, it is the "four" who will decide, the Russians say, and the other members will have to go over to the Russian side.  As for the matter of the Straits, the Russian position has not changed there either. Progagenda launched by the Moscow government inside the Soviet Union on this subject was such that a profound modification of this position appears impossible.  When a parallel was drawn between the Black Sea, and the Baltic Sea, calling both of them "inland seas", none of the Sussian delegates present contradicted this simile. The Russians even let it be understood that when the status of the Ealtic Sea and that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic sea that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic sead that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic sead that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic sead that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic sead that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic sead that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic sead that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic sead that of the Kiel Canal are examined that when the sead of the the canal are examined that when the sead of the canal are
25X1 <sup>2</sup> 25X1 <sup>3</sup> 25X1 25X1	the Balkans Commission does not change the fundamental position of the U.S.S.R., which remains uncompromising on the fact that the riparism states alone, victors or vanquished, should settle the Danube question. According to the Russian delegates, there evidently is no question of reserving Banubian commerce for the riparian states alone.  The Soviets will now wait for the results of the examination of the Danubian question by the whole Conference.  They think that in the Conference itself, it will not obtain a two-thirds majority either, and that consequently, it can not be presented as a recommendation of the Conference to the Council of Four Foreign Ministers. Finally, it is the "four" who will decide, the Russians say, and the other members will have to go over to the Russian side.  As for the matter of the Straits, the Russian position has not changed there either. Progaganda launched by the Moscow government inside the Soviet Union on this subject was such that a profound modification of this position appears impossible.  When a parallel was drawn between the Flack Sea, and the Baltic Sea, calling both of them "inland seas", none of the Eussian delegates present contradicted this simile. The Russians even let it be understood that when the status of the Ealtic Sea and that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic Sea and that of the Kiel Canal are examined, this particular nature of the Baltic Sea and the Status of the Kiel Canal. The Russians will doubtless claim control of

Approved For Release 2005/08/02 : CIA-RDP82-00457R000100650004-9

		25X1
	CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE GROUP
	≈ 2 ~	L
(1
1 <sup>7</sup> °	The U.S.S.R. plans to feel out the situation to see if the time is ripe for accomplishing a federation between Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania for the purpose of dominating Mastern durope, isolating Greece and
1	and Turkey, and controlling the Straits effectively.	tomg Greece and
8,	Thus, a test of strength is being prepared in this region repercussions vould be heavy with consequence Russians know this and are proceeding methodically, taking time and precautions. The stakes are high.	The es. The the nacessary
	7.10 COM118 GEO 1123,340
	S 3 C 3 3 T 25X1
	25X1

COMPEDENTIAL